

Radical Indeterminism

D1:  $a$  is a free action =df.  $a$  is an action that has no cause.

A: There are some free actions. [Accepts FWT; denies PUC]

B: People are morally responsible for their own free actions as well as for the consequences of those actions.

An Argument against Radical Indeterminism (Suggested by Ayer, p. 17; and Chisholm, p. 24.)

1. If Radical Indeterminism is true, then Leo the Lunatic is morally responsible for assassinating the Great Leader.
2. Leo the Lunatic is not morally responsible for assassinating the Great Leader.
3. Therefore, Radical Indeterminism is not true. 1,2 MT