

I briefly define white public space as the scope and range of professionally managed public and publicized action organized, in defense of white privilege, as the manipulative, often deceptive, practices of surveillance and patrol that reliably render national, local or private domestic spaces racially public and capable of globally propagating the material embodiments and ideological representations of whiteness that secure the saliency of a dominant racial occupation and redefinition of sub-global spaces fearfully subjected to racial scrutiny and control. Enoch Page 1999©