

Gravely 1336 Walk-behind mower. I bought this several years ago. It has a 13 hp Kawasaki engine; 36" cut. I had a stand-on Gravely sulky to go with it. The whole rig always worked quite well, except for two things: first, it had a manual starter. I had to pull a rope. As I got older and my joints became more tender, I found it painful to start. The second problem concerned the "reverse assist". When I bought it, I thought it had a genuine reverse gear, but that was a mistake. When shifted into reverse assist, it was able to creep backwards on smooth, level ground. But it would not go backwards up a hill, or in heavy brush. So I had to let it go.